the building

The Edward Durell Stone-designed Helfaer Building, a simple, balanced, brick building was constructed in 1973. The Museum was developed in 2008 after a renovation by Kahler-Slater. The building also houses the Milwaukee Jewish Federation, Wisconsin Jewish Chronicle and Holocaust Education Resource Center. To the north of the building, visitors will see the Memorial to the Holocaust designed by Milwaukee-born artist, Claire Lieberman. The cortan steel sheets give a book-like effect, symbolic of the Jewish identity as “people of the book.”

Explore the history of Jewish Milwaukee through JMM’s permanent exhibit and three special exhibits each year.
